IGHN HISTORY SINCE 2004

IGHN has within its membership health and development professionals and others with an interest in and a commitment to influencing education, advocacy, and policy working within the NGO sector, health sector, and academia to make an impact across global health sectors.

An estimated 698 million people, or 9% of the global population, are living in extreme poverty. More than 34 million people are living with HIV and AIDS, and one in three people globally still do not have access to safe drinking water.

We work to identify key issues and cross-cutting themes that are important for the global health community in Ireland so that we can make an impact across all global health sectors. We are agile and responsive to emerging issues relevant to our members and partner interests.

GET INVOLVED | BECOME A SPONSOR

IGHN PODCASTS /

The IGHN podcast series Get Global – Global Health Talks is an interview series and archive of personal testimonies from some of Ireland's leading global health influencers including doctors, ambassadors, campaign advocates, activists, and media personalities who are leading the charge in their respective fields.

We have a new podcast series launching this year in partnership with Irish Aid, which will highlight Global Health projects and programmes supported by Irish Aid across partner countries in Africa & Asia. The series will use Ireland's International Policy Document 'A Better World' as a framework for questions and the focus will be on the rationale and impact of the project or programme and how that relates to the priorities outlined in A Better World.

STUDENT OUTREACH / TEAM

The IGHN Student Outreach Team was formed to give students a stronger voice in the IGHN. It is composed of a group of current students and recent graduates of courses related to global health and development across nine universities in Ireland. This group allows the students to contribute new and innovative ideas, helps ensure that the IGHN is meeting student needs, and provides members with exciting opportunities and connections in the field of global health. We also run a student podcast series, a series by students for students which focuses on the experiences of early-career professionals and undergraduate, graduate, and postgraduate students focused on global health.

The IGHN Student Outreach Team also run a number of student-led events and conferences throughout the year.
